

ANNOUNCEMENT

From the Editor-in-Chief:

Dr. Robert Haselkorn of the University of Chicago, who has served as an editor of Virology handling papers on bacteriophages and fungal viruses, has decided to step down as an editor. Dr. Haselkorn has served as an editor since 1972. From the founding of Virology, there have been only three editors for bacteriophages: Salvador Luria, Louis Siminovitch, and Robert Haselkorn. Virology is greatly appreciative of the hard work performed by Dr. Haselkorn and expresses its gratitude to him for his 28 years of service. We wish Dr. Haselkorn well in the new endeavors that he is undertaking.

I am pleased to announce that Dr. Ian J. Molineux of the Department of Molecular Genetics and Microbiology, The University of Texas at Austin, has kindly agreed to become an editor of Virology handling bacteriophages and fungal viruses.

I am also pleased to announce that Dr. John A. T. Young, Howard Temin Professor of Cancer Research at the McArdle Laboratory for Cancer Research, University of Wisconsin–Madison Medical School, has kindly agreed to become a new editor of Virology to help handle papers concerning retroviruses and HIV-1. Dr. Young's appointment is in addition to those of Dr. Peter Vogt and Dr. Harriet Robinson.

Robert A. Lamb
Editor-in-Chief